Markham-Ellesmere Revitalization Study

A word of caution about the 2006 Census Data

Population Data - The Undercount

Although Statistics Canada makes a great effort to count every person, some people are missed in each Census. Statistics Canada takes this into account and estimates an 'undercoverage' rate for the urban region (CMA) every Census, but not for the City, which will be released in the fall of 2008. The 2006 Census counted an unexpectedly high number of unoccupied dwelling units. This leads City staff to suspect that the Census may have missed more households than usual.

Structure Type - Probable Data Problem

The 2006 data shows large changes in various dwelling structures. For example, the number of single and semi-detached dwellings fell by 55,600, whereas the number of duplexes and apartment units in buildings under 5 storeys increased by 55,400. Please note that this data may not reflect actual construction and demolition patterns, thus the data must be analyzed with caution.
